

Arsenal Has Job for Engineer

Col. Carroll Hudson, commanding officer of the Joliet Arsenal, reported today that there is a job vacancy at the plant for an ordnance engineer, which pays $4,902 per annum.

A qualified mechanical engineer who has had experience in process manufacturing will be considered for the ordnance engineer position, he said.

Other jobs open are architectural draftsman, at $3,397.20 a year; lineman electrician, $1.38 per hour; steamfitter-plumber, $1.21 per hour; and two carpenters, at $1.15 per hourly pay.

Applications for any of the jobs may be mailed to the personnel director at the Joliet Arsenal, or individuals applying in person should report to the personnel office on the plant site.
